Eight Lives Toll In Chinatown New York Fire

Blaze Sweeps A Tenement Section This Morning

NEW YORK, June 21—(P)—The worst Chinatown fire in 30 years raged through two teeming Doyer street tenements early today, taking at least eight lives and menacing the whole area of crowded, outworn buildings.

Excited, chattering Chinese and white residents of the district, routed from their beds by the clatter of engines responding to four alarms and the screams and shouts of desperate men and women fleeing for their lives, jammed the crooked narrow streets for hours.

The firemen, who were joined by Mayor La Guardia at the height of the fire, worked under extreme difficulties in the twisting streets. Four of the firemen were injured.

For half an hour after they had sighted a man clinging to a fire escape which threatened at any moment to fall, the firemen worked under a protective barrage of water to rescue the man. Eventually he was brought down, only to die later in a hospital.

The fierceness of the blaze and the rapidity with which it roared through the ancient wooden halls and dark cubicles of the tenements moved Mayor La Guardia to declare that "Chinatown must go."

Investigation Be Made
It also led to the announcement by the district attorney's office that an investigation would be started immediately to determine responsibility for the fire and the loss of life.

Chinatown, only a few blocks from the city hall and the civic center, lies just north of Brooklyn bridge at a point where the shabby bowered with its steaming crowded lodging houses and cheap dives stems off from Chatham square. There are three streets—Doyer, Mott and Pell—lined with tiny shops and restaurants with flaring signs and banners.

Noisy at night under the glare of many lamps, Chinatown had lapsed into darkness and sleep when the first faint crackle of flames and the drift of smoke in the tenement where the fire started roused one of its many occupants at 3:40 a. m. (EST).

He screamed a warning that sent others tumbling from their beds. One man slid down a pipe from a window of the dark hole in the wall he occupied on the second floor of 17 Doyer street. Half dressed Chinese men, women and children scrambled through the front doors of the two buildings, climbed from windows and ran crying down fire escapes.

One man stopped to dress. The firemen found him later, dead, with a half-burned sock in his hand.

A woman and her husband picked up their two cats and a handful of belongings and slipped from a window. Another man, trapped by the flames in front of one of the tenements, found egress at the rear cut off by a nailed door. He hammered at it with his bare fists, tearing the skin of his hand before he broke through.

Fire Marshal Brophy said his preliminary investigation indicated the fire started on the third floor of the building at 15-17 Doyer street, mushroomed and spread through a narrow airshaft and through the open windows of the adjoining building.

He had no idea how many people might have been in the buildings or whether any had been trapped when some of the floors collapsed.

Fire commissioner John J. McElligott recalled that thirty years ago a fire roared through the same building killing 28 or 30 persons.

It was not until two hours after the first alarm sounded that firemen had the flames under control and were confident the rest of Chinatown was safe.

Car Into Ditch During Storm

Mrs. E. L. Spangler, 1313 West Broadway, suffered minor bruises about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, when she encountered a bad wind storm while driving to Windsor, her former home. Mrs. Spangler was a short distance from highway 65, on highway 52, when a wind storm arose, and the wind was so strong that it carried the car off the road and into a ditch.

A Negro employee, Roy Hall, who was in the car was not injured.

Mrs. Spangler was taken to Windsor and will return to her home this afternoon.

Bothwell Hospital Notes
W. H. Jones, Nelson, was admitted for medical treatment.

J. C. Rayl, 1005 South Missouri avenue, was admitted for surgery.

Injuries In Car Accident Fatal

Mrs. John Laister, aged about 70, of Montrose, Mo., died at 1:25 o'clock this morning in the General hospital, Windsor, of injuries suffered Tuesday night in an automobile wreck, which occurred on highway 52, south of Green Ridge.

Mrs. Laister, with Maurine Fewell, Lubbock, Texas, and B. C. Welch, Petersburg, Texas, was returning to her home from Marshall, Mo., where she had attended an all-day church meeting. The car skidded on the wet loose gravel, and struck the side of a bridge. Mrs. Laister suffered a fractured skull and crushed chest. Miss Fewell and Mr. Welch received only minor injuries.

Senate Gives Approval On Huge Farm Bill

Passes Measure Of $1,200,000,000 After Agreement

WASHINGTON, June 21—(P)—The Senate speedily approved today a farm bill appropriating more than $1,200,000,000.

The annual supply bill now goes back to the House for separate votes on items totaling $140,000,000, previously rejected or reduced by that chamber.

A joint Senate-House conference committee reached an agreement on the measure earlier today and this compromise won Senate approval.

Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) said House conferees had accepted the $225,000,000 increase voted by the Senate for additional farm benefit payments but would ask separate House votes on numerous other Senate increases, totaling about $140,000,000.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) said the conference group had made reductions of only $13,126,439 from that $1,219,000,000 total approved by the Senate.

Bankhead said a compromise on the much-discussed administration proposal for a government subsidy for cotton exports was the final item in the Senate-House committee agreement which now must go back to both chambers for approval.

Under the bill as approved by the Senate about $50,000,000 would be available to subsidize cotton exports.

This would come from $90,000,000 available from customs receipts and $113,000,000 additional voted by the Senate for farm surplus removal operations.

Bankhead said the conferees had agreed that one-half of the total available for cotton from the $113,000,000 would be utilized to increase domestic uses of cotton, while the balance could be used "as the secretary of agriculture sees fit."

Conferees said separate House votes would be required on the $113,000,000 Senate increase and on $25,000,000 voted by the Senate in addition to $25,000,000 approved by the House for the farm tenancy program.

The $225,000,000 for benefit payments accepted by the House conferees would be in addition to $500,000,000 previously approved by the House for farmers growing wheat, cotton, corn, rice and tobacco under the administration program.

When the House passed the farm appropriation measure in March it rejected a $250,000,000 benefit payment item by a narrow vote.

If the House approves the major items under separate votes the farm bill will carry $370,000,000 more than previously approved by the House and $360,000,000 more than President Roosevelt's budget recommendations.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate conferees, said he would ask Senate approval of the compromise measure "as soon as possible." House action will follow.

Russell said it was his understanding the House would attempt to earmark about $12,000,000 of the cotton surplus funds for domestic purposes, such as relief distribution of cotton goods.

This, he added, would leave about $35,000,000 available to finance cotton export subsidies.

No Plans For Inquiry In State

WASHINGTON, June 21—(P)—Acting Chairman Woodrum (D-Va.) said today a House committee investigating the Works Progress Administration had no plans to investigate conditions in Missouri.

The committee probably will discontinue its activities within a few days unless it receives an additional appropriation.

"I have no information that conditions in Missouri demand special investigation," he said. "Of course there are bad spots here and there, but I have no reason to believe that Missouri is worse than some other states."

Stark Looks For Murray To Quit WPA Post

Anticipates His Resignation In Next Few Days

ST. LOUIS, June 21—(P)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark told newspapermen here this afternoon, on his return from conferences with President Roosevelt in Washington, that he is "confident" Matthew S. Murray will resign as WPA administrator in Missouri.

The governor declared he believed Murray would announce his resignation within a few days "in order to be of no further embarrassment to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hopkins, who appointed him."

The governor, smiling broadly, declined to disclose the details of the conversations he had with the president and Hopkins in regard to Murray's ouster.

Instead, he produced this prepared statement, written in pencil on a crumpled sheet of paper: "In view of recent developments and disclosures, I feel confident that Mr. Murray, in order to be of no further embarrassment to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hopkins, who appointed him, will resign as WPA director of Missouri in the next few days."

Refers To Ouster Case
Asked what step would be next in the moves against what remains of the once-powerful Pendergast machine at Kansas City, Gov. Stark issued another statement concerning ouster proceedings against W. W. Graves, prosecuting attorney of Jackson county.

It follows: "Gargotta's (Charles Gargotta, sentenced last week to three years in prison on a charge of assault with intent to kill former Sheriff Thomas Bash conclusively justifies my demand for ouster proceedings against W. W. Graves, prosecuting attorney of Jackson county, and should make the legal proceedings against him very simple for the courts, and disbarment proceedings against him equally simple for the Missouri bar committee."

Graves dropped the case against Gargotta last December after it had been continued through 27 terms of court. Stark then denounced Graves as a tool of Boss Tom Pendergast and demanded that he be ousted from office.

James Wright, 17, pleaded guilty in circuit court this morning to first degree robbery, taking $35 from Lawrence Lucke. He was sentenced to the state reformatory in Booneville and paroled. He has since had his seventeenth birthday, therefore the present case was taken up in the circuit court.

The prosecuting attorney, Frank W. Hayes, told the court that Wright had taken $35 from Lucke, while the latter was in a car parked on the west entrance to the Missouri State Fair grounds last Saturday night. He stepped up to the car, the prosecuting attorney said, and with his hand in his pocket, as though he had a gun, said, "This is a stickup; put your hands up or I'll shoot 'em out of you." Wright, he said, had on a coat, no hat, and a handkerchief covering the lower part of his face.

Lucke, believing the youth had a gun handed over his money, and as the boy, with the money in his hand walked north along the railroad track, he (Lucke) fired three times at him. He then reported the robbery to police officers.

Wright, arrested some hours later by Officers Anson Finnell and Howard Nelson, admitted the robbery, but said that as he reached the intersection of the tracks and Sixteenth street, someone knocked him in the head and took all but $4 of the money. He had only $4 when arrested.

Wright's mother, Mrs. David Turner, 1612 South Carr avenue, was present in the court room this morning. She told the court that after her son was paroled he had attended church regularly and was a good boy. They are very poor, she said, her husband was ill and unable to work, and the boy stole the money to help her. "It's my fault," she said. "I looked to him to find work to help us out at home, and when he couldn't find work, he sought other means to get the money we needed so badly."

Wright was represented in court by Fred F. Wesner.

Jack Crawford Takes A New Position
Jack Crawford, who has been field secretary for the University of Missouri, has resigned to accept the position of field supervisor of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Crawford's headquarters will be in St. Louis, but he will maintain a field office in Sedalia.

President Is Still Reticent

No Third Term Comment By Him Until After Trip

WASHINGTON, June 21—(P)—Politicians who have been hoping for some inkling from the White House about 1940 apparently will have to go on hoping—at least until President Roosevelt makes his west coast trip after Congress adjourns.

The chief executive made it plain at a press conference yesterday that he would have nothing to say about a third term now or in the near future.

He gave this indication on three separate occasions, despite his laughing replies to questions designed to draw him out on the political topic of the hour.

Asked flatly whether he would be a candidate for reelection next year, Mr. Roosevelt smiled and revived a year-old admonition that reporters putting such queries should stand in a corner with dunce caps on and faces to the wall.

Columnists, he said, had made a point last week of the fact that he had omitted this "go stand in the corner" order when asked to comment on Secretary Ickes' magazine article advocating "Roosevelt for 1940." From now on he would make no such mistake, the President added.

Prior to this question, someone asked whether he had talked about politics with Mayor La Guardia of New York earlier in the day.

Holds To Reticence
The President laughingly said the reporter was getting into the hot seat.

"You mean the question was hot?" a newspaperwoman inquired.

He did not mean that, but that the weather was hot.

A second woman reporter tried another tack. She requested comment on the significance of:

1. Secretary Wallace's pro-New Deal speech Saturday before the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, followed by adoption of a resolution expressing that faction's "hope and prayer" Mr. Roosevelt would be reelected for a third term.

2. Attorney General Murphy's Madison speech terming the La Follette the "best political stock in the nation."

(Visits to Wisconsin of the two cabinet officers had caused speculation here as to whether New Deal Democrats and the Progressives might be preparing a friendly get-together for 1940 when Senator La Follette comes up for reelection.)

But the President was equally reticent on this subject. He said he had only read the headlines.

He did volunteer the information, though, that his transcontinental trip, which will give him an opportunity to gauge political sentiment in the north, south and west, would be delayed until after Congress quits.

Many politicians believe that journey may give some clue to the President's 1940 attitude, although others look for no direct expression until convention time next summer.

Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri, whose name has been mentioned in some quarters in connection with 1940, left the White House yesterday with a statement that the President was "very much pleased" with the smashing of the T. J. Pendergast political "machine" in Kansas City.

Senate 'OK' On Appointments

But One Nominee Of Governor Stark Is Rejected

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21—(P)—The Senate was two major strides closer to its Saturday adjournment goal today after approving Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's major administration appointments and giving two more years' life to the 2 per cent sales tax.

Among the more than 100 names the upper chamber considered in a three-hour session last night were many stalwart Stark supporters who played important roles in his successful war on the T. J. Pendergast Democratic machine, launched a year ago.

Only one of the governor's nominees—that for a minor post—was rejected.

However, appointees to the election boards of Kansas City, Jackson county, St. Louis city and county and the St. Louis and St. Joseph boards of police commissioners remain to be considered in another executive session.

Included in the most important appointments to the official family were:

George I. Haworth of Carthage, social security administrator; J. D. James, Joplin, chairman of the public service commission; Andrew J. Murphy of Louisiana, unemployment compensation chairman.

Lowest Death Rate In Nation In 1938

WASHINGTON, June 21—(P)—The census bureau announced today the nation had its lowest death rate last year.

The 1,380,986 deaths in 1938 made an average of 10.6 per 1,000 population, shading the 10.7 record of 1933 and contrasting with the modern high point of 18.1 in the influenza year of 1918.

One reason for the lower rate was a better record of saving babies. The mortality rate of infants under one year of age was reduced to an all-time low of 50.9 per 1,000 live births.

Uncertain As New Monetary Legislation

Talk Of Sessions At Nights In The U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON, June 21—(P)—Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), in schoolmaster style, told colleagues considering monetary matters today that "no political party ever has succeeded itself on a falling price level."

"We are not out of the depression yet because the price level is too low," he said, in a chart-illustrated appeal for NEZ currency expansion.

The bill under debate would extend the President's emergency monetary powers and the operation of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to 1941.

Thomas declared he was no "inflationist" and defined inflation as "the issuance of irredeemable paper money."

With Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), Thomas seeks to reduce the stabilization fund to $500,000,000 and issue $2,000,000,000 in new money backed by the remaining $1,500,000,000 from the fund and $500,000,000 of free treasury gold. They also would have the treasury raise its price for newly mined silver from 64.64 cents an ounce to $1.05.

Thomas had the floor for a speech to last several hours. Prospects for enacting new relief, monetary and tax legislation by June 30, when many administration powers in these fields expire, meanwhile became increasingly uncertain.

Progress was made in some directions, however.

WASHINGTON, June 21—(P)—Prospects for enacting new monetary, relief and tax legislation by June 30, when many administration powers in these fields expire, became increasingly uncertain today as advocates of currency expansion and a domestic silver subsidy held the senate floor.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, called prolonged discussion of the pending monetary bill a filibuster. He expressed the opinion that senators engaged in it were trying to get the treasury to announce its new price for newly-mined domestic silver.

The treasury now is paying 64.64 cents an ounce for such silver, about 24 cents above the world price. Some senators have been apprehensive that Secretary Morgenthau might reduce this price after June 30.

Advocates of an increased silver subsidy, or at least continuation of the present subsidy, are in an unusual strategic position because the administration is anxious to get the monetary, relief and tax bills through congress within the next nine days.

Unless they are enacted by that time, the president's power to operate the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and to devalue the dollar will expire; WPA funds will be exhausted, and the government will lose money from the expiration of excise taxes.

Barkley called the senate into session at 10 a. m. (CST) an hour earlier than usual, in an obvious effort to wear down the speechmakers. There was talk of night sessions, too, if the prolonged discussion continued.

The Democratic leader told reporters the situation "works two ways" because, if a filibuster prevents enactment of the monetary bill by June 30, the treasury would have no authority after that date to pay any price for domestic silver higher than the world quotation.

Bill Extends Authority
The bill extends this authority, in addition to continuing the right to operate the stabilization fund and to devalue the dollar.

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) the author of a substitute bill which provides for issuance of $2,000,000,000 in new gold-backed paper money and directs the treasury to pay $1.05 an ounce for domestic silver, said the monetary discussion might continue until the end of the month.

A senate appropriations subcommittee, meanwhile, continued its study of the house-approved relief bill. Senator Byrnes (D-SC) was drafting an amendment requiring states to contribute at least one-fourth of the cost of WPA projects within their boundaries.

The house-approved tax revision bill, repealing the undistributed profits tax and continuing the excise taxes, won approval of the senate finance committee yesterday. Senate debate may take only a few hours.

The committee voted only minor changes in the bill. Among these was a provision continuing for 1940 favorable tax treatment of utility companies which merge or liquidate under orders from the securities commission.

President Roosevelt told reporters he was hopeful that congress would approve this year a bill removing tax exemptions on the income from federal and state securities.

British Plan Steps To Insure Food Supply

Three Injured In A Katy Wreck

MOKANE, Mo., June 21—(P)—The caboose and an oil tank, the last two cars of a Missouri-Kansas-Texas freight train, left the tracks and overturned three miles west of here today, injuring J. R. Smith, Katy roadmaster, and Carl Toler of Columbia, a brakeman.

Joe Culver of New Franklin, the engineer, said a rail probably gave way after most of the train had passed over it safely. A long stretch of track was torn up in the wreck.

The injured men were taken to a hospital in Jefferson City.

Employers Be Granted Rights On Bargaining

In Certain Cases Might Petition For Election

WASHINGTON, June 21—(P)—Charles Fahy, general counsel, said today the National Labor Board had decided to grant employers the right to petition for a collective bargaining election among their workers in certain cases.

Fahy made the statement to the House Labor committee when Joseph Padway, general counsel of the American Federation of Labor, expressed the opinion that the board probably would not take such a step.

Fahy said that the board decided officially yesterday to make the change and would include it in a "whole set of revisions" in the board's regulations to be announced soon.

Chairman J. Warren Madden of the board had said several weeks ago that employers would be granted the right to ask for an election but told the committee such permission would have to be surrounded with safeguards to prevent employers from taking advantage of their organized employees.

WASHINGTON, June 21—(P)—David R. Clarke, of Chicago, general counsel for the Illinois Manufacturers Association, urged Congress today to repeal the "majority rule" provisions of the Wagner Labor Relations act before adjourning.

If it fails to do so, he said, it will find the country's industries "far more completely paralyzed than now" when it reconvenes next session.

Testifying before the Senate Labor committee, Clarke said recent strife in the coal, automobile and other "strike-ridden" industries constituted "mere preliminary skirmishes to what is ahead of us."

"The CIO and the AFL have now publicly declared a war to the finish on all fronts—a war for control over millions of workmen in industry," the witness said.

"This is a war between two powerful groups of labor union leaders to secure the spoils of victory under the National Labor Relations act."

"It is a war to secure the power the National Labor Relations act gives to the victor under the 'majority rule' provisions of that act."

Clarke said the act provides that the union found by the labor board to represent a majority of workmen in a collective bargaining unit shall be the exclusive representative of all employees in the unit.

He contended this policy was unlike the Democratic system of government in that there was no provision for minority representation.

"There is nothing in the European situation so threatening to America," he said, "as it is the possibility of Congress adjourning without—at least—removing this immediate, vital threat to the well-being of this country."

No Immediate Indication For Blockade Break

LONDON, June 21—(P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Britain had made it clear to Japan she would take necessary steps to assure adequate food supplies for British subjects in the blockaded British concession at Tientsin.

Chamberlain said Japan also had been informed that Britain did not "acquiesce" in the blockade.

The prime minister's statement was in response to a question by Anthony Eden, his former foreign secretary, answering other questions, Chamberlain said there had been no new incidents at Tientsin, that the Japanese government had promised to investigate incidents already reported and that there was no serious food shortage so far.

The British cabinet had reviewed the international situation in a two-hour session before the parliament meeting and had approved a statement the prime minister planned to make.

Chamberlain said the government still was awaiting a definite statement from Tokyo as to Japanese intentions with regard to foreign concessions in China.

He answered no to questions by Geoffrey Mander, liberal, whether he would consider extending British-French-Russian negotiations at Moscow to cover the far east and whether the government considered sending a cabinet minister to Moscow.

The prime minister said it was necessary to reach an agreement on mutual assistance before military staff talks with Russia could begin. Negotiations, he declared, at present were concerned only with the European situation.

In government circles and in the press there was increased optimism that an agreement with Soviet Russia would be completed this week.

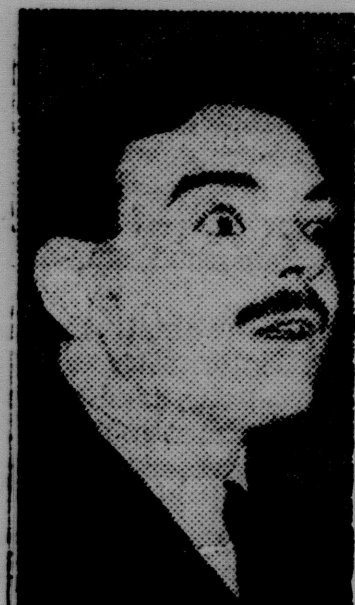

Test of Patience
TIENTSIN, June 21—(P)—The eight-day-old Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions developed today into a determined test of patience between British and Japanese.

An official British report said

One Year To Go Presidential Possibilities

No. 1—Thomas E. Dewey

Tom Dewey . . . G. O. P.'s ace contender for 1940 nomination
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of 12 features on the outstanding Democratic and Republican hopefuls for the 1940 presidential election.

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Number one contender for the Republican nomination right now is unquestionably Thomas E. Dewey, handsome gang-buster of the New York district attorneyship.

For a man who left his home town (Owosso, Mich.) only 10 years ago to make his way in the big city, Dewey has come up fast. He got one lucky break—when Governor Lehman, a Democrat, named him special prosecutor to clean up New York's rackets; the rest of his climb was done the hard way.

He is young and looks younger, is strikingly handsome, a good speaker and a magnetic sort of person to meet. He works hard, has a driving force and a brilliant legal mind, and—just incidentally—owns a sound political background; back around the turn of the century his father and his uncle were political leaders in Shiawassee county, Michigan, and knew the game inside and out.

To date Dewey has refused to be smoked out on national political issues, conceding sound tactics for his party's most prominent contender. He proved then that when the fight is made a good impression. He proved then that when the fight is on he is not hesitant about committing himself.

HIS ASSETS: Most important, a magnificent record as a scourger of political corruption; large quantities of "political it" or voter-appeal; a well-earned reputation for courage, incorruptibility and energy, and a general air of being a good man to handle a tough job.

HIS LIABILITIES: Many party leaders dislike him, think him arrogant and self-centered. He is having trouble harmonizing the liberal and conservative wings of his party in New York state. As the "front runner," he is the natural target for the other contenders.

HIS CHANCES: Many a man has gone to the White House with fewer assets and heavier liabilities.

No Inquest On Mrs. J. L. Jones

BLACKWATER, June 21—Mrs. James L. Jones, 30, who drank a quantity of sodium fluoride solution Tuesday morning about 3:30 died suddenly here at 7:45 after she had been given medical treatment.

Coroner J. C. Tinch, who came here immediately after her death, said there would be no inquest.

Her husband, James Jones, local farmer and employee of the Missouri State Highway department, believed his wife drank the poison solution accidentally. He said Mrs. Jones had been in good health and was apparently in good spirits when she retired Monday night.

A pound can of the powder, purchased recently, had been partially used in ridding young chickens of mites and several days ago a solution had been made from the powder to be used on potato plants and for treating flowers and other plants on the farm which is located about two miles east of Nelson.

Mrs. Jones slept, as was the custom, in an upstairs bedroom with one of their sons, Jones told Coroner Tinch. Jones and the second son slept in a downstairs bedroom.

Jones said he was awakened on Tuesday morning about 3:30 by Mrs. Jones who told him she had taken a portion of the solution. He immediately gave her Epsom salts to induce vomiting and rushed to the office of Dr. W. L. Abney here about 4 o'clock.

She was apparently responding to medical treatment, the coroner said, when she died suddenly at 7:45.

Jones is employed by the Missouri State Highway department; during the spring and summer months he is commissioned to keep the shoulders clear of weeds with a horse-drawn mower.

Cumberlands Abolish Book Censorship

Abandon Permanent Board; Marshall Convention Closes

MARSHALL, Mo., June 21—(AP)—The Cumberland Presbyterian assembly voted after two hours of vigorous debate Tuesday to abolish its permanent committee on denominational books, a body exercising censorship on matter published by the church.

The motion to abolish the committee was offered by one of its members, the Rev. E. K. Reagin, president of Bethel College, McKenzie, Tenn., after the assembly had voted to continue it another year with $100 for expenses.

Supporting Rev. Reagin was the Rev. J. W. Elder of Ft. Knox, Ky., who contended the committee only duplicated censorship imposed by various church boards.

the boards that recommended them—the education board, Christian Education board, etc.

Opposition to doing away with the committee was led by the Rev. C. E. Hurley, Memphis, Tenn.; the Rev. J. A. Davis, Memphis; and the Rev. H. T. Curtis, Austin, Tex.

Rev. Davis said: "As a father, I would have failed had I not guarded my children against dangerous literature. The church must be that vigilant."

Rev. Galloway contended the committee should remain as a safeguard.

The assembly voted to reconsider its motion continuing the committee by a 45-43 standing vote. The final vote, abolishing the body, passed by a large standing vote.

Convention Ends
Action on the book committee brought the convention to a close.

A memorial by the Illinois synod protesting the use of textbooks by certain "modernistic" authors also was debated at length, but no action was taken.

The assembly refused to adopt a mileage plan for delegates, leaving each presbytery to pay the expenses of its own representatives, despite the protest of one delegate that the plan will be presented every year "until something is finally done about it to help the churches and delegates who are not centrally located."

Society and Clubs

Complimenting Miss Margaret Love, whose marriage to Dr. J. M. Rodeman will take place early next month, Miss Mary Ross Hoffman entertained with a pantry shower Tuesday evening at her home, 824 West Broadway.

The guests were invited to meet in the garden and there a "country style" picnic supper was served. During the dessert course a wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, was presented to the bride-to-be. Tiny charms with brief fortunes were found by the guests in their pieces of the cake.

At the close of the supper Miss Love was given a shopping basket with a poem, written by Miss Hazel Lang attached, directing her to look for hidden gifts of canned foods.

The garden had been decorated with Japanese lanterns, but due to summer showers games arranged for the evening's entertainment were played in the home. A "sweetheart" guessing game featured the diversion, and the award was won by the honor guest.

The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. George C. Hoffman and Mrs. Philip McLaughlin.

Miss Hoffman's guests were Miss Love, the Misses Martha O'Bannon, Mary Catherine Redmond, Martha Redmond, Jane Laupheimer, Maxine Pettyjohn, Mary Ritchie, Catherine English, Sadie Foster, Vivian Valkenburg, Lillian Hurley, Mrs. Paul Lange and Mrs. John Rudd Van Dyne.

A surprise birthday dinner was given at Thomas Snapp's home, near Postal, Sunday in honor of his birthday anniversary. At noon a dinner to which all contributed was served cafeteria style.

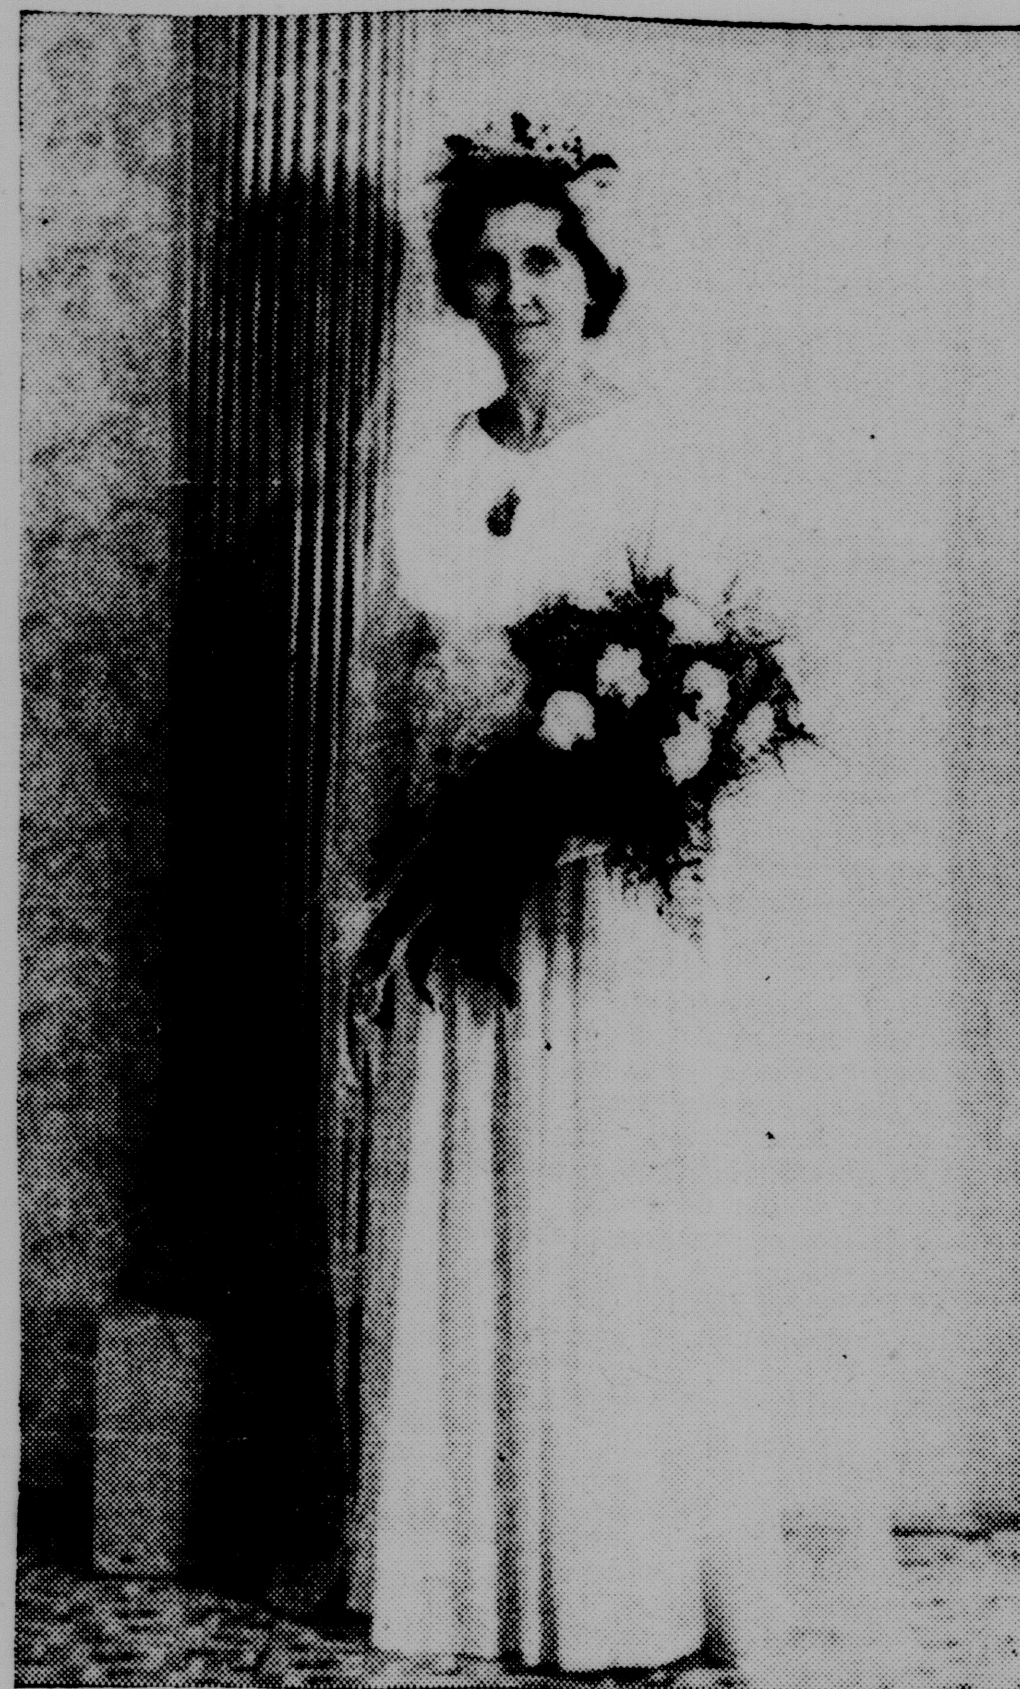

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. George Adams and children, June, Lawrence, Mary and Anna, Mrs. Frances Adams and son, Barney, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cureton, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Deitmar and son, Orville Lee, Bill Deitmar, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hayes and children, Elwood, William Lee and Mary Frances, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Racy, Mrs. Rayhill, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Streeter and children, Donald Lee and Bobbie, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Snapp and children, Charley Bill and Leon, Mrs. Lee Snapp, Mr. and Mrs. Horton Snapp and children, Frances and Esther, Bill Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor and children, Delores and Patty Lou, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Taylor, Harry Zinn and Betty Joe Kabler.

Seven members of the Sedalia Country Club were guests Tuesday for Ladies Day at the Jefferson City Country Club.

They were Mrs. Joe Dwyer, Mrs. Charles G. Wilson, Mrs. Henry Loving, Mrs. Chester A. Wright, Mrs. Henry C. Salver, Mrs. Othel Sherwood and Mrs. N. T. Dunlap.

Mrs. Duncan R. Crockett, formerly Miss Lorean Cheatham of Corder, Mo., recently married. Her wedding gown belonged to her great grandmother, Mrs. John Kelly, who lived in Johnson county, near Warrensburg. It was made in 1847, of a very fine material, like soft linen. It was made entirely by hand, the only trimming being shirring and narrow lace.

ing bridge game, was served in the new club house, and in the afternoon the Sedalians joined the capital city Country Club women golfers in a social match. They returned to Sedalia late Tuesday evening.

A marriage license was issued in Jefferson City Monday to Miss Nellie Winstead and Gordon E. Montgomery, both of Sedalia. Relatives and friends of the couple had been apprised they were to be married Monday, and it is presumed they were married in Jefferson City, where the license was obtained, although no one had received any definite word.

Miss Winstead, who resided with her sister, Mrs. Fannie Garst at 316 South Park avenue, came to Sedalia from Illinois about a year and a half ago.

Mr. Montgomery lived at 305 West Fifth street, and has held the position of teller at the Union Savings Bank. He resigned that position, effective June 15, and with his bride will locate in Columbus, Ohio.

Able Bodied Relief Clients Must Work

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 21—(AP)—Martin Fellhauer, Jr., county director of the Social Security Welfare commission, placed vagrancy charges against Alvie Pearson when Pearson refused to work out the 88 hours assigned to him as payment for relief orders.

Pearson pleaded guilty but sentence was deferred by Justice W. P. McDonald on recommendation of Prosecutor Maurice Hoffman, when Pearson agreed to do the work.

Fellhauer said he would follow this course in all cases where able-bodied relief clients refused to do assigned work.

Raising a Family

Father and Son Only Become Pals When They Share Mutual Interest By Olive Roberts Barton

Fathers often wonder why their sons go to their mothers for favors. They are secretly hurt when it happens, but, manlike, say little about it. The situation has come about so gradually that no one seems to notice how things stand. The neglected father often endures torture when his boy ignores him.

Such a state of things existed in one family I know, and the man, being a thinking person, decided to correct it. His son was eight.

They had a garden. It was something new to this father as well as the boy. Dad had put in for exercise and air, after the confinement of the office where he worked all day, but now he saw another blessing to be had from nature's bounty. He was astute enough, also, to have observed that Harry was terribly interested in flowers. So he bought some to add to the utilitarian plots. It produced the desired effect. Harry stood around and watched for the first time.

Get Acquainted By Sharing Work One evening Father said to Harry, "Come out with me, boy, and we'll work together. I have fixed this garden all for you. It is your garden, but I shall help you with it. Get your hoe and we'll both go out and farm, pal."

Harry looked up quickly. His dad had not called him "pal" for months. "Sure, I'll help," he said, "if you show me what it needs."

And so it went for a week or so. Harry often worked alone at his weeding, proudly showing his father the result at night. He cut long grass edges with the shears and watered the green rows faithfully.

One Saturday afternoon, Dad said, "I think I'll try the big creek for fish today. Want to go along, boy?"

Did he want to go? It was too good to be true. They got nothing but a burn and a catty, but the quiet peace of the day and the man to man talk has left an impression never to be lost to Harry's young mind. He and his father are pals.

Stories in Stamps

Planned Ship Railway Over Mexican Isthmus

LASTING monuments to the engineering genius of the late Capt. James B. Eads are the jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi river and the deep channel they created, opening the port of New Orleans to world traffic.

On a par with this achievement was his construction of the Eads bridge at St. Louis, Mo., in 1867-74. The three 500-foot spans were the largest built up to that time. He had to sink one of its piers 110 feet below the surface of the river, the deepest submarine construction that had been attempted.

No fantastic dream, therefore, was Eads' projected ship railway across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec in southern Mexico.

He envisioned a railroad consisting of many parallel lines of tracks, over which numerous locomotives would pull a gigantic ship cradle. The cradle was to be submerged at the ocean terminus, the ship floated onto it and then locomotives would pull cradle and ship 134 miles across for launching on the opposite side.

Eads claimed that his railway could be built in four years at half the cost of the Nicaraguan canal, then under discussion; that it would save 2000 miles as compared with the proposed Panama Canal; and that it could be enlarged to take care of increasing business.

But Eads died in 1887 and with him died the dream of a ship railway. Eads' Bridge over the Mississippi at St. Louis is shown on the U. S. $2 stamp above, light brown, enlarged, one of the Trans-Mississippi "Omaha" Exposition series of 1898.

We Like To Play

The year 1938 beat all previous years for participation in outdoor sports. And 1939 should be still greater.

We like to play, and is there anything to be ashamed of in that? We think not, and the grim philosophy now prevalent that man is made merely to hold a badly abraded nose on an eternal grindstone for the greater glory of his race, or his country, or his self-appointed leaders, is not likely to get any great following here.

Here, according to the National Recreation Association, are the most popular outdoor sports and the number of participations in them in 1938:

Swimming, 200,000,000; softball, 20,000,000; ice skating, 13,000,000; baseball, 11,500,000; golf, 8,000,000; and handball and horseshoes, 4,500,000.

Why does the world work? Among other reasons, to earn a chance to play. And so, blessed is that country in which the man who works is not robbed of the play he has sweetly earned.

Glass Houses

The first house entirely built of glass has been set up at the New York Fair.

Literally, it may be true. But we all live in glass houses, in spite of our delight in throwing stones. That goes for nations, as well as for individuals.

We toss verbal stones at the totalitarian countries because they have no liberty. But have all Americans complete liberty? Few would argue that they have, and that is our glass house.

The British deplore Japanese blockade of their concessions in China. But how did they get those concessions in the first place? That is their glass house.

William Green of the A. F. of L. and John Lewis of the C. I. O. exchange verbal brickbats, but are there no elements of glass in the house of either?

Fewer brickbats flying through the air today would be a help on every front, international, national and personal. The barrage would decrease if every brick-tossing would first look over his own house for vulnerable elements of glass.

Barefoot days and swimming holes are not the only reason kids wait campily for summer. Heat closed the schools in Des Moines the other day.

So They Say

Television has suffered from overstatements. Its inauguration in New York may arouse false and underground hopes in the minds of people throughout the country.—President A. S. Wells, of Radio Manufacturers' Association.

Just as the future of the Protestant pulpit is dependent upon the civil liberties of democracy, so also is democracy dependent upon the pulpit for those great ideals which insure that men given freedom will not abuse it.—G. Bromley Oxnam, youngest Methodist bishop in U. S.

The right to vote should be given at 18 instead of 21. Old Dealers, like to curry favor with the Townsend group, but have given little thought to the youth of today who need a helping hand.—Stephen M. Young, former Ohio congressman.

Abandonment of co-ordinated thinking paves the way for Fascism and revolution.—Dr. Edwin E. Aubrey, Chicago University theologian.

They (words such as reactionary, liberal, conservative) are dum-dum words to assassinate men and then to plant bitter onions on their graves.—Herbert Hoover.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

N. E. Jones, state deputy organizer of the Modern Brotherhood of America, will organize Sedalia lodge No. 461. Thursday night with a charter membership of 34.

A committee composed of Mrs. W. D. Steele, W. H. Hogg and Rev. F. L. Cook is in charge of the choral music, to be sung by hundreds of S. Galsians, both young and old, at Liberty park on the Fourth of July.

The storage house of Samuel Zimmermann, at Main and Washington streets, was destroyed by fire last night, and four horses were burned to death. The total loss exceeds $1,000.

T. Noffsinger won the one-mile cycle race, with John Paul a close second, at the races sponsored by the Sedalia Cycle company at Liberty park last night. The winning time was three minutes.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON, June 21—The private talks which British Ambassador Lindsay had with Secretary Hull can be summed up in one sentence: The British desperately need and want United States cooperation in the Far East to help stand off Japan.

Hull has been very secretive but his personal reaction, although he probably would deny it, has been favorable to the British. However, the reaction of the United States navy, especially the dynamic admiral who is its real boss, is emphatically negative.

One year and a half ago, when the Japanese deliberately bombed and sank the U. S. gunboat Panay, Admiral Leahy was in favor of cooperating with the British. He pointed out that American rights had been deliberately flouted and that the American public would support a blockade against Japan.

Secretary Hull hung back. His career advisers, particularly Hugh R. Wilson, were opposed. Wilson paced the floor of Hull's office, frenziedly urging that no action be taken.

Now, however, the position is reversed. Admiral Leahy points out that Americans are not being molested, that no American rights are at stake, and that the United States immediately would be accused of pulling British chestnuts out of the fire.

So he proposes keeping the U. S. fleet out of Japanese waters.

British Double-Cross
Significant fact to remember about the Far East is that the British now are reaping what they sowed.

Back in 1931, when Japan first invaded Manchuria, Secretary of State Stimson did his best to rally world support and the peace machinery of the League of Nations against Japan. He got the cooperation of France and various smaller nations, but from the British nothing but empty promises.

In fact, when it was agreed with the British to deliver identical notes of protest to Japan against aggression, the British ambassador would come back to the Japanese foreign office shortly after delivering his protest, and say in effect that Britain merely was going through a routine protest in deference to the United States, and that she thoroughly understood Japan's problems.

Even during naval conferences, the British frequently played with the Japanese, and the American delegation at one conference was cautious about giving out confidential information in front of R. E. Craggie, for fear it might lead to Japan.

Craggie is now British ambassador to Japan and has the unpleasant task of protesting to the government which he once so ardently favored.

No place in Washington is more closely guarded against intruders than the house of representatives when in session. Four doorkeepers stand guard at each entrance and it's about as easy to get by them as to break out of Alcatraz. Yet that is exactly what a stranger did the other day, and the boys are still gasping at his nonchalance.

Tall, white haired and well dressed, the intruder first was noticed calmly sitting at the democratic leaders' table in the middle of the chamber. Members asked one another who he was. None knew. Former congressmen have the privilege of the floor throughout their lives, and it was assumed he was an old-timer.

Finally the doorkeepers decided there was something strange about the man and they summoned Speaker Bankhead.

"Never saw him before," he said, after scrutinizing the stranger. Neither had Sergeant-at-Arms Kenneth Romney. So Doorkeeper Fred Schatzman was directed to do the bouncing. He walked up to the intruder and quietly inquired what he was doing in the chamber.

The gate-crasher ignored the question. Instead, to Schatzman's astonishment, he shoved out his hand and said amiably, "Plunkett's my name, Plunkett from Iowa. What's yours?"

When Schatzman regained his breath he explained that visitors were now allowed on the floor. "Those galleries up there," he said, "are for that purpose." "Oh, I was up in gallery," replied the gate-crasher blithely, "but I couldn't hear very well. As there were a lot of empty seats down here I decided to come down so I could make out what was going on."

Merry-Go-Round
What the Russians think of the Nazis soon will be illustrated by a new film called "Frederick's Defeat," depicting the Russian capture of Berlin in 1760. The picture reminds the world that Russia has been successful in carrying warfare to enemy soil. Frederick, incidentally, is one of the great idols of Hitler. . . . Tom Corcoran has secured a new attorney for Dave Dubinsky and the International Ladies Garment Workers, following the death of Frank Walsh. He is Dean Acheson, who will try the first test of the Norris-LaGuardia

Supreme Court Score

High score in decisions handed down by the supreme court in its recently concluded term was chalked up by Justices Stone and Roberts, who tied for first with 21 major rulings each.

Second place went to Chief Justice Hughes with 17 decrees, followed by Justices Black and Reed with 16 each, Justices Butler and McReynolds with 15, Justice Frankfurter with ten in the four months he sat on the bench, Justice Brandeis six before his retirement in February, and Justice Douglas two in the six weeks he served.

Justices Butler, Stone, Black and Reed had perfect attendance records for the eight-months term, not missing a sitting of the court. Poorest attendance record was Chief Justice Hughes', owing to his illness.

No. 1 hockey player of the term was Justice McReynolds, who absented himself eight times, six on decision days, although not ill all winter. He also was the only Justice who failed to show up at the commemorative services held by the court in honor of the late Justice Cardozo.

McReynolds chalked up another record for the term. He wrote the larger number of dissents — 26. His fellow Old-Guarder, Justice Butler, was close behind with 25. Of the 90 dissenting opinions issued during the term, the two veteran die-hards teamed up 24 times. Justice Brandeis, famed for his dissents, ended his career without a single one.

SERIAL STORY

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

BY JANET DORAN

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Iris learns at her wedding supper about Bart's true attitude about money. She hides her own views so that the first cloud comes over their marriage.

CHAPTER III

IT was, declared the new Mrs. Bart Whittaker, just like her to be that rattled over her wedding, and the supper at the Tivoli, afterward, to completely forget about Sunday, and shops being closed. It was just their luck to face the very first day of their married life with not a thing in the pantry to cook.

"No Sunday dinner—Bart, I'm a wretched woman," Iris wailed. "We can throw something together from odds and ends—I'm not fussy about any big dinner Sunday," said the bridegroom cheerfully. But his bride was not to be consoled.

"There are no odds and ends, oh lord and master," she stated hollowly, "looks like the young Whittakers gnaw a hotdog at a lunch-wagon. Oh well, it could be worse, Bart. I might have forgotten your breakfast bacon, and your favorite shredded eggs."

"Can you make an omelet?" he asked suddenly, inspiration lending wings to his imagination. Iris made a grimace.

"Can," she agreed, "but won't. This is the first day of our marriage Mister Whittaker, and we start out right."

They had roast chicken and fresh strawberry sherbet at the very swank little Pickwick Grill, a popular dine and dance adjunct to the old Hostler's Inn, overlooking Linwood Common in the business district. They had remained salad and black coffee in eggshell tiny cups, and a single yellow jonquil nodding in a slender vase in the center of their tiny table.

They had music by the famous Four Horsemen Orchestra, and the check was for $3.20, but Iris said it was worth it. They had atmosphere, didn't they?

STILL, it was the first day of their married life. It was their very first day of being Mr. and Mrs. Bart Whittaker. You couldn't tote an adding machine and a double entry bookkeeping system around with you on that day.

They went for a walk out beyond the Lower Falls, because it was such a beautiful, warm spring day, and they had to be indoors all week, but by the time they'd reached the spot where Bart hoped to find trailing arbutus under the warm dry leaves, Iris discovered her feet hurt.

"It's walking so far, darling," she said plaintively, "I guess I'm just a sissy after all. Do you suppose there's a bus back to town?"

There was. And in the Campus Chocolate Shop they had toasted cheese sandwiches and hot coffee and cake, and Iris decided they must see the new feature at the downtown Met.

Going to sleep that night, with her blond head curved into the warm hollow of Bart's shoulder, Iris decided they'd eat out all next week, too. It was such fun, and the food was so grand. And it didn't cost much more than cooking at home.

She even planned what she'd do with the money she saved. Money she wouldn't have to spend on groceries and meat and fruit and cream if Bart took her out to dine.

There was that jonquil yellow knitted dress she'd wanted so, and the new honey-beige kid sandals, and the little burnt orange straw hat that was scarcely more than an inverted waffle with a perky bow at one edge.

It was that very Monday noon that the girls in the office insisted she lunch with them, and introduce the brand-new husband. Iris tried to evade the invitation, but had to capitulate when they crowded her.

"Bart may not be able to make it," she explained uneasily. "He'd better," Ellen Kent chuckled, "or we'll ask a proxy—someone so devastating he'll regret playing hooky."

"All right," Bart said a trifle shortly, when Iris telephoned him at the shop a few minutes later, "though I have only an hour, Iris, I have to get right back to the shop and relieve Henry so he can go to lunch."

"Henry won't die if you're a few minutes late, Bart; after all he works for you and you've some to ask about things, I should think."

Bart didn't answer that. He felt that women rarely understood the duties and responsibilities of a man toward his help, and attempts to explain the bond only confused the issue further.

"We're all going Dutch," Iris explained promptly, when Ellen told him they'd decided on the Tivoli, "everyone loves the Monday Italian specials they have at the Tivoli, so we thought if each one paid for her lunch we'd have something really good, and not be a burden to anyone."

THAT night Bart brought home a pound and a half of steak, a cauliflower and a pineapple and suggested they eat at home.

"But of course, darling," his bride exclaimed wistfully, "you know how I love to hide away in our little nest here. Only—well I wish I'd known. There are so many things we have to have to make a really good dinner."

"Don't you buy your groceries ahead, Iris?" Bart asked bluntly. She dimpled a shy smile at him as she wriggled into the lilac satin housecoat and hauled the zipper up, patting the purple sash into position fondly.

"Mostly, things have to be bought as they're used, Bart, when you've no pantry. These small places have only a cabinet and refrigerator, and it means buying as you go along. It isn't such a bad plan, really."

"It's an expensive one, Iris! Look, you save dollars, buying bargains in large lots. But you know that, naturally."

"Yes, I know, Bart. It makes me so mad. It seems as if the people with money enough to not worry over savings, get all the bargain chances while the folks who really need to economize, make it up by paying extra for small quantities of everything."

"Well, let's see what we need, honey; can't be helped."

on the list Iris gave him. And by the time she had the meal cooked her head was aching, and Bart had the dishes wished onto him as an after-dinner token. But he whistled cheerfully as he cleaned up the kitchen, confident that he had married the one and only wonder girl in the world, and that their future was a wide, serene road to Paradise. It took time to get things organized, and get adjusted to changes, and Iris was not used to running a home for two.

The next day, her headache was exchanged for a scratchy throat, and Iris insisted she felt too punk to care about eating much of anything. They could go around the corner to the Campus Chocolate shop and have a hot vegetable soup and rolls, and she'd go straight home and to bed after.

Only the hot soup was so good. Her throat felt much better after she'd had the invigorating broth, and a lamb chop, and the regular menu followed, with Spanish Cream extra. Bart thought of the triangle of left-over steak he had planned to dine on, supplemented with a chop for Iris, and his budget book had a severer crimp in its even without consulting the figures.

THAT first week was but a fore-runner of weeks to come that were to fall into the same pattern. Iris was tired after her day at the office, too tired to cook supper for them. But not to tired to dance at the Cove Inn, or the Royal Palace Arcadia, or the Blue Moon.

And after a while, Bart stopped arguing, stopped protesting. After a while, he grew to dread the menacing threat of her swift tears, and stormy sobbing if he tried to remonstrate with her, or deviate from the course she wanted their matrimonial bark to cruise on.

"Why, Bart? Money isn't everything, and we're only young once," she cried petulantly. Then, winding her warm round arms tight about his neck, "Don't you love me, darling? Don't you want your little wife to have any fun? It isn't as if you weren't the handsomest man on the dance floor, and by far the best dancer. It isn't as if I weren't half dizzy with pride over my big hubby!"

So they went. And the holes in the budget grew bigger and bigger. Until the budget became practically lace. Badly torn lace. Held together with the fragile, delicate thread of Bart's love for her, his belief that everything would come out all right. It was bound to. Iris was young, she was giddy now, but she'd get it out of her system and settle down. All girls did.

He went to the little store around the corner and spent $2.70

The Central Missouri Farmer

Treatment Of Sheep Worms Pays Owners

Recommendation For 1939 Is Given By University Expert

Pettis county farmers treated 8,240 mature sheep and 4,000 lambs an average of five different times for stomach worms last summer. In addition, 6,000 mature sheep were treated for tapeworms at least once during the summer. The treatments used were bluestone (copper sulphate) for the control of stomach worms and blackleaf 40 (nicotine sulphate) for tapeworms.

Flock owners using this treatment report their lambs make more rapid gains, and that the ewes are in better condition at breeding season and at the start of the expensive wintering season. With healthier sheep and fewer stunted lambs their flocks are less susceptible to disease and there are fewer death losses.

For treating sheep during 1939 slight changes have been made in recommendations, according to E. S. Matteson, extension animal husbandryman of the Missouri College of Agriculture. In pre-of tapeworms. Correct weights and measurements are necessary since these materials are poisonous.

If the solution is properly mixed and administered there is no danger of losses. Crockery, enamelware, or glassware containers only should be used in preparing and using the solution, as the chemicals react with metal containers.

Best results are obtained when the sheep are off feed for 18 to 24 hours before treating, but are allowed water. Both feed and water are withheld for four to six hours after treatment. Sucking lambs may be separated from the ewes for two to four hours before treating and not allowed to nurse until three to four hours after the treatment is given.

The handiest tool for giving the dose is a two ounce or a four ounce metal syringe. With the sheep standing on all four legs and with the nose held up slightly, but not beyond the level of the eyes, the nozzle of the syringe may be inserted in the side of the month pointing toward the back of the tongue.

Inject Slowly

Injecting the solution slowly will help to avoid strangling. Efforts should be made to treat with as little handling of the sheep as possible. This can usually be done

Ewe flock, above, owned by J. A. DeJarnette of Sedalia. These ewes are treated regularly through the grazing season for tape worms and stomach worms. All of the wether lambs from this year's crop were marketed on June 14, weighing 84 pounds each at the St. Louis Market.

paring the solution two ounces of bluestone are dissolved in a pint of hot soft water, then enough soft water added to make one gallon.

Keep Free From Powder
It is important that the copper best by crowding the sheep close in a pen or stall and marking each sheep with a piece of carpenter's chalk, to avoid repeating the dose. It is essential to keep the solution stirred while using.

The dosages recommended are:

Lambs weighing 25-35 pounds	1 1/2 ounces of solution
Lambs weighing 35-50 pounds	1 1/2 ounces of solution
Lambs weighing 50-75 pounds	2 ounces of solution
Lambs weighing over 75 pounds	2 1/2 ounces of solution
Yearlings and mature sheep (Depending on size and condition).	3 to 4 ounces of solution sulphate used be free from white powder. If it is necessary to use hard water, the white precipitate that forms may be dissolved by adding a little vinegar. One ounce of blackleaf 40, is added to this gallon of solution for the control

Refrigeration Discussed By Home Agent

Dorothy Bacon Explains Danger Of Bacteria Growth

By DOROTHY BACON, Pettis County Home Demonstration Agent

Refrigeration is perhaps the most timely topic of the season since temperatures have been climbing, because bacteria, the invisible micro-organisms which cause foods to spoil, function best in warmth and moisture. They multiply rapidly unless their growth is checked by a constant temperature below 50 degrees. Food left in a warm kitchen or exposed to temperatures on a porch or in a window deteriorates rapidly.

It is a startling fact that there are in one quart of sour milk enough bacteria to reach farther than from Sedalia to Indianapolis, Ind., if placed side by side. That is because milk is one of the best mediums for the growth of bacteria. For that reason milk requires careful refrigeration to prevent "off flavors" caused by various bacteria.

Refrigeration Pays

Other dairy products including butter and cheese and protein foods such as meats, fish, and poultry also deteriorate readily. Thus it is wise, healthful and economical to provide some means of refrigeration. There are many people who pay the cost of refrigeration by storing farm products and selling them in town when they go on their shopping trips.

For those who have electricity an electrical refrigerator is ideal; the hardest step is the initial cost of equipment as the upkeep is low. This is also true of the other types of mechanical refrigeration.

With the ice type refrigerator the initial cost is lower but the upkeep higher and with the homemade refrigeration the initial cost and upkeep are both low but the inconvenience and degree of refrigeration are also less satisfactory.

Keep Foods Cool

However, regardless of how you do it, the important consideration is that you keep your foods cool for your own health's sake as well as for the attractiveness and palatability of food and the prevention of loss by spoilage.

Your home demonstration agent will be glad to help you with problems pertaining to refrigeration, especially if you are considering the purchase of a machine and desire to know what qualities to look for.

Until some of you have electric refrigerators when the Rural Electrification project of Pettis

Topsy's 'Puppy' Has Feathers

Nestled into softness of "mother's" back, an orphan finds complete contentment. Topsy, cocker spaniel owned by A. E. McCaskey of Huntington, W. Va., adopted the chick when her litter of puppies died. She treats the little bird with tender care, transports it gently in her mouth.

Hatcherymen's 'Short Course' At University Soon

The annual "short course" for hatcherymen and their employees will be held at the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri, from June 28 to 30.

The short course is designed to give hatcherymen, their employees, and others practical information on poultry production involving feeding, management, housing, breeding principles, breeding flock selection, pulletum testing, and other disease control.

As in previously conducted annual short courses of this type, instruction pertaining to breeding flock selection and blood testing for control of pulletum disease will be given. The scope of the course has been enlarged, however, to include much valuable information which has a very definite place in the consideration of solutions to the many important problems involved in successful hatchery management.

Must Continue Progress

Missouri's continued prominence as a leading hatchery state depends upon continuation of progress already achieved in providing chicks of superior quality and value.

Expansion of existing markets for Missouri hatchery eggs in other sections of the United States is likewise dependent upon continued improvements.

The future of Missouri's entire county is complete remember—"He who uses well that which he has at hand while seeking that which he does not have knows the value of progress and success."

Need To Keep Hens Laying In Summer

High Level Of Feed Will Prevent Any Production Slump

Among the Pettis county poultrymen who kept accurate flock records in 1938, F. Claude Lee had 119 hens that averaged 206 eggs, and the 227 hens of F. H. Cook produced 173 eggs each. To get this high production these flock owners followed good management and feeding practices to keep their hens laying during the summer season.

Any practice that will help maintain a high level of feed intake will tend to prevent a slump in egg production during the summer, says C. E. Rhode, extension poultryman of the Missouri College of Agriculture. If the laying house is of adequate size this may be accomplished by keeping the hens confined near their feed until one or two o'clock in the afternoon.

Laying Mash Helpful

Feeding a wet crumbly laying mash at noon each day in an amount to be consumed in 10 or 15 minutes is also helpful. Removing windows and adding a straw loft to the laying house will assist in keeping the hens cool. An abundance of fresh clean water is essential.

Rigid culling of the flock to eliminate non-layers is one of the best ways to cut costs during this period. Those hens of the yellow skinned varieties that begin to develop shanks and bills have likely ceased laying.

Molting of some of the large wing feathers also indicates that the hen is producing few or no eggs. The sale of all male birds that are not to be retained for breeding purposes will also reduce feed consumption, as each of these birds eats approximately eight pounds of feed per month.

Avoid Infestations

It is essential that lice and mite infestations be avoided. Lice may be controlled by using a dip made of one ounce of sodium flouride in one gallon of lukewarm water. In cold weather the sodium flouride may be applied as a dust.

Another effective treatment is the use of Blackleaf 40 on the roost poles, according to the directions of the manufacturer. Cleaning droppings platforms roosts and nests regularly and spraying this equipment with carbolineum or a mixture of equal parts of kerosene and crank case oil will kill mites.

If kerosene and crank case oil are used the treatment should be repeated after one week. Keeping droppings platforms and roosts oiled will prevent mite infestations.

1940 Wheat Allotment

Missouri's 1940 wheat allotment will be 1,963,713 acres, announces C. W. Sheppard, chairman of the State Agriculture Adjustment Association Committee.

This allotment is 51.1 per cent larger than the 1939 allotment, which totaled 1,705,277 acres. The increase in the state allotment is the result of an increase in the national wheat allotment, which was recently announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, to be 62,000,000 acres. The national allotment for 1940 is larger by 7,000,000 acres than the 1939 allotment.

Wide participation of farmers in Missouri and other wheat-producing states with the AAA Farm Program this year contributed substantially to the adjustment in wheat supplies and the resulting larger allotment for 1940, says Mr. Sheppard.

The state allotment will soon be allotted to counties, after which county AAA committees will apportion the county allotments among individual farmers. The state allotment was received all most two months earlier than last year, which will make it possible for farmers to have their allotments well in advance of the winter wheat planting season.

Pettis Demonstration Training Day June 30

Pettis county 4-H Team Demonstration Training Day will be held in the assembly room of the court house on Friday, June 30.

The purpose of this training day is to give 4-H Club demonstration teams an opportunity to present their demonstrations and receive constructive criticisms from T. T. Martin, State Club Leader, to improve the demonstration before the county contest is held in connection with the county achievement day. This will be the third such training day in the county and it is being held at the request of the 4-H Club County Council.

Since demonstrations are an important part of 4-H Club work, the 4-H Club County Council is interested in having all 4-H clubs represented at this meeting, both those who bring demonstration teams and those who are unable to bring teams.

Miss Bacon To Assume Duties

Miss Dorothy Bacon, of Sylvan Grove, Kas., Pettis County's new home demonstration agent, has arrived in Sedalia to assume her duties. She succeeds Mrs. Claire L. Montgomery, who has been promoted to similar work in Texas county, and will have her office in the basement of the old Y. M. C. A. building.

Swift's Distribution Of Wholesale Dollar

Figures released recently by Swift and Company show that their wholesale dollar was so distributed in 1938 that 74.92 cents of every dollar received for everything the company sold went to producers of agricultural products. This distribution was approximately the same in other years.

In 1938, employees, supplies and transportation received 78 per cent of the approximately 25c out of each dollar of sales which was left after paying the agricultural producer.

Tree Borers Are Harmful

Two Methods Of Treatment; Tree's Age Guides Method

From reports that have come to the Pettis County Extension office, considerable damage is being done to peach trees in the county by the peach tree borer.

According to Dr. Leonard Haseman, Chairman of the Department of Horticulture, College of Agriculture, there are two methods of controlling peach tree borers; one is to handwork the trees, and the other is through the use of Paradichlorobenzene. The age of the peach tree determines which is the better method to use.

For trees under three or four years of age, it is usually better to hand work them though many growers are now using the ring of Paradichlorobenzene (PDB) crystals around the base of even young trees. However, there is some danger of the chemical scalding the trees if not handled with care.

In using the PDB crystals on two and three year old trees, apply approximately 1/4 ounce of the crystals around the trees, keeping it about two inches from the base of the tree and covering it with three or four inches of soil free of sod and litter. Leave for 10 to 14 days and then hoe the material away from the tree. Ordinarily this treatment will not scald the bark, however, if a heavier dosage or a longer period of time is allowed for the chemical to operate, some injury to the young thin-barked tree may result.

In larger and older trees, the dosage should be increased to 1/2 ounce or even 1 ounce on large bearing trees. The method of treatment is the same as for the younger trees except that the crystals need not be removed from the base of the tree.

Recently it has been found that this chemical can be dissolved in a mineral, soybean, or cottonseed oil mulson and sprayed onto the tree trunk near the base. Approximately the same dosage of PDB as used in the other method should be applied. An application of the chemical in oil emulsion is less likely to cause injury to

Cropping On Contour Is Increasing

22 Pettis Farms Use This System; Find It Profitable

The acreage of crops which have been planted on the contour in Pettis county this year shows an increase of 340 per cent over the acreage planted on the contour last year according to J. U. Morris, county extension agent.

In 1938, seven farmers planted 168 acres of crops on the contour. This year, 22 farmers have planted 572 acres on the contour. One of the reasons for the large increase in the number of farmers using this practice is because they are realizing that contouring is a profitable practice. These profits can readily be measured in terms of increased yields, reduced power costs, and the satisfaction of knowing that productive soil is being kept in the field where it belongs.

Conservation Leadership

A second reason for the wide use of contour planting is because of the leadership which has been developed in this work in the past three years by those who have enrolled and taken part in the soil conservation training school. One phase of the soil conservation training school included training in laying out contour guide lines.

Investigations have shown that the soils best adapted to contouring are soils with high organic matter content and open subsoil. On some of the tight soils, the impounding of a large amount of water in rainy seasons may prove to be a problem. Ordinarily, the conservation of moisture is far more important than the harmful effects during an occasional wet season. This disadvantage can be largely eliminated by giving the contour rows a slight grade toward the waterway so that they will drain out better after a rain.

Need Protection

Depressions or drainage ways in the field are critical areas and should be left sodded down. Where a protective sod is not present in existing waterways, a quick growing crop can be seeded to provide protection until grasses can be seeded for a more permanent control.

Pettis county farmers who have planted either corn, small grain, soybeans, or sudan on the contour include: F. B. Brockman, Ernest May, Ray Schondelmeyer, C. F. Wicker, A. J. Mergen, Emmett Boltz, George Fichter, John Sned, J. A. DeJarnette, C. S. Mutti, Earl Neff, Wilbur Eichholz, Ed Carlis, Marvin Goodwin, L. E. Durlley, Paul S. Read, R. R. Lujin, Norman Gibson, C. D. Hunt, J. C. Longan, Edward Heffernan and Q. A. Morgan.

the tree and it is frequently used on 1-year-old trees. However, there is some trouble in getting it dissolved and emulsified for application.

What Central Missouri Farm People Are Doing

The Hickory County Extension board and Home Economics Council met in Hermitage recently with Miss Rena Jenkins, state home economics leader from Columbia, and with county agent Ray Graham, to plan their year's program. They decided to hold community meetings of the community program planning committees, which were selected at this meeting. The co-chairman of these committees follow: Center—Ralph Nevins and Mrs. W. A. Dollarhide; Cross Timbers—Kermit Hickman and Mrs. Lee Logan, Green Township—Len G. Mallonee and Mrs. Clifford Richards; Jordan township—W. A. Sundwall and Mrs. Frank Cox; Montgomery township—Claude Carpenter and Mrs. John McNabb; Stark township—Jake Anderson and Mrs. Roscoe Eddie; Tyler township—Roy W. Reed and Vivian Loure; Weaubleau township—T. T. Swicegood and Mrs. Fred Dorman; and Wheatland township—W. T. Harrison and Mrs. T. A. Largent.

About 5,000 Missouri farm boys and girls will attend 4-H club camps held at 25 locations this summer. The first camp began at Kaiser, June 11, and the last one will be held at Krondale, August 21-24.

In Missouri, 13 per cent of the annual farm income is derived from poultry products. On January 1, 1939, an off-season for poultry population, there were 21,127,000 chickens in this state.

A yearling filly, owned by O. Bruce of Pettis county, was mentioned in the 1938 report of the Missouri Agricultural Extension Service, which was issued recently. This filly gained 688 pounds in one year, qualifying for first place in the county contest. Foaled April 15, 1937, she weighed 482 pounds August 1 of the same year, and 1,170 pounds one year later.

William R. Banta, Jr., Negro of Speed, is the young owner of twin calves which are now three weeks old. The mother, a half guernsey and half jersey, is a "four gallon" cow. The father is an Angus bull.

Mrs. L. S. Case of Pilot Grove route 2, put 32 eggs under two hens recently. Then hatched out 31 chickens. The chicks are of mixed breed, half Rhode Island Reds and half Buff Leghorns.

On July, the Home Economics council of Hickory county will have a county picnic in Hermitage.

Missouri ranks fifth among the states in creamery butter 79,230,000 pounds in 1937, and in 1938 breaking that record. Dairying is Missouri's largest agricultural activity, with over 200,000 producers of milk and cream, it was announced recently by Jewell Mayes, commissioner of agriculture.

Grain Buying Begins Here

The Sedalia Mill Products company purchased its first two crops of barley last Saturday, one from Tegtmeyer Brothers of LaMonte, which was No. 1 quality. Thirty-nine cents per bushel was paid on this barley.

The second crop was bought from Paul Reed of Sedalia, route 6. This barley was also of No. 1 quality and the same price was paid for it.

The Missouri Farmers Association Exchange expects to begin its grain buying by tomorrow or Friday.

Both crops purchased by the Sedalia Mill were harvested with a combine. Combining has started on the Joe Thompson farm west of LaMonte, and the 300 acre crop of wheat there has also been purchased by the Sedalia Mill. Indications are that this wheat will run 30 bushels to the acre.

Cut a Clean Swath with a FARMALL 14 and Quick-Attachable Mower

You cut the neatest, cleanest swath you ever saw when you put the Farmall 14 Tractor on your Farmall 14 Tractor. You can do the work of several horse-drawn outfits, keep well ahead of the raking, loading, or stacking, and probably most important of all, cut your crop at just the right stage, while it is in best condition to make high quality hay.

Tractor and mower operate as a single unit, making it easy to turn short, square corners. The drive shaft is equipped with a safety clutch which will slip and prevent breakage should the knife become clogged. In addition, there is a safety "break away" feature which allows the cutter bar to release and swing back out of the way should the bar strike an obstruction. Transmission gears are fully enclosed and run in oil. Shafts operate on high-grade roller bearings. You will be time and money ahead if you buy a Farmall Quick-Attachable Mower this season. Come in and find out more about it.

A. R. Easton

Alton R. "Rufe" Easton, 85, former Sedalia, died suddenly at Blue Springs, Mo., where for some time he had been residing. News of his death was received in a telephone message to Dr. John Carlisle from Mr. Easton's son, Theodore, of Kansas City.

The son stated that the body would be brought to Sedalia for burial in Crown Hill cemetery at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. A letter would follow tonight, he said, giving further information.

Mr. Easton was for many years employed with the Crawford Loan and Abstract Company. He served as secretary of the Sedalia Lodge of Elks for more than twenty-five years.

Born in St. Louis Mr. Easton was a member of a pioneer family there. The well-known Easton avenue was named for his father.

Mrs. Margaret E. B. Crawford

Mrs. Margaret Emerine Bourn Crawford, widow of the late James Harvey Crawford, died Monday, June 12, at her home in Steamboat Springs, Colo.

Mrs. Crawford, nee Margaret Emerine Bourn, was born near Sedalia January 18, 1849. She was united in marriage to James Harvey Crawford, a soldier of the Civil War, May 25, 1865. After his discharge from the army, April 14, 1865, he was made a brevet colonel, and a month later married his boyhood sweetheart, Margaret Bourn.

For seven or eight years they lived on a farm south of Sedalia, now known as the Wingate farm. May 1, 1873, with their three children, they left their Missouri home for the west. They had two teams loaded with household goods and camp equipment, and there were five other teams to keep them company. They reached Denver June 5, thirty-five days after leaving their Missouri home. There was the first wagon over the Rollins pass, and the road was not entirely completed. They reached Hot Sulphur Springs, ranged their cattle and built a log house, which is still standing. Mr. Crawford decided to go further west, and went to Steamboat Springs, where they located. He put up precaution notices and roughly marked out the foundations for a house. In July of the next year they founded Steamboat Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. Crawford lived to celebrate their 55 wedding anniversary together there. Mr. Crawford died June 24, 1930.

Mrs. Crawford is survived by her four children, Mrs. Luile Pritchett, Denver; Logan Crawford, John Crawford, and Mrs. Mary King, of Steamboat Springs. She was a sister-in-law of the late Grant Crawford of Sedalia.

Funeral services were held in Steamboat Springs Thursday morning.

Rathford Is Ready To Tell Story To Jury

Charge Made Of 'Not Digging In Rotten Spots'

KANSAS CITY, June 21.—(AP)—An official investigation to uncover the facts in the payment of $356,500 during a six-year period to the John J. Rathford Engineering company by the city water department was a step nearer its goal today with an announcement by Rathford he would tell his story to a county grand jury.

The money was paid the concern at the rate of $5,000 a month purportedly for conducting a survey of water leaks. City officials have been attempting to find out who ultimately received the money.

Rathford was a $140 a month water department employee. Others named as partners on the company were Joseph G. Halpin, an attorney, and Carl D. Higgins, a construction company superintendent.

The city has filed suit to recover the money and depositions were being taken.

Paul T. White, Rathford's attorney, said this morning in the circuit court of Judge Brown Harris, his client "is ready to give the grand jury the full details of his transactions."

Twice before it was reported Rathford would tell his story to the grand jury, but each time he failed to talk.

At the same time White said he had replaced Thomas E. Walsh as Rathford's attorney. Walsh is an acting judge in the Independence, Mo., division of the Jackson county circuit court. Last week it was disclosed he had been listed on the payroll of the street cleaning department.

Judge Harris overruled two motions made previously by Walsh. One of them asked that the city make more definite and certain its charges in its suit to recover the money. The other was a motion to stop the taking of depositions in the case. The city charges fraud in the payments to the Rathford company. Higgins and Halpin previously told the grand jury they had received no money from the concern.

Recess Is Taken

The grand jury will resume its activity next Tuesday after a recess. White said he wanted Rathford to appear before the jurors at the earliest possible time to give his accounting.

Meanwhile, the city's court of inquiry into payroll padding recessed today to the tune of a complaint by the Forward Kansas City committee it is not digging into "the rotten spots."

"We're going to go as far as we can in the investigation," said Fred Bellemere, city counselor. "In the next few days we should be ready for more testimony."

Bellemere sent transcripts of the testimony so far to the prosecutor's office.

"Certainly," he said, "There is sufficient evidence for prosecution in the state courts."

"If the postal authorities are interested, we will give them all the aid possible. They might wish to investigate whether the mails were used to defraud."

Witnesses have testified public works department pay checks for persons who never worked were mailed to E. Mont Reilly, former Republican governor of Puerto Rico. Reilly said he got the men jobs so they could repay loans.

William S. Gogsett, member of the Forward Kansas City committee's legal committee, reported orally to the committee on his observations at the hearing.

"Take for instance," he said, "those men who say that Reilly got them their jobs. Those men know whom Reilly dealt with and they should be asked that question x x x."

"As for the 'ghosts' on the payroll, their origin should be easy to trace. Who gave the order that placed those names on the payroll?"

The city looked to Washington for any further action against Matt Murray, who resigned yesterday as public works director.

Murray also is state WPA director. The Star says he is slated for dismissal. Governor Stark said in Washington yesterday he had talked about Murray with President Roosevelt and WPA officials.

Murray stepped out of his $8,000 a year city job at the demand of Mayor Bryce B. Smith, who told him to take his choice which job to keep.

The WPA job pays $6,000 a year and is a potentially powerful political position, controlling as it does thousands of WPA workers.

Murray had been regarded as an heir to the political overlordship exercised by T. J. Pendergast before he was sent to Leavenworth for income tax evasion.

Pay Hike To Be Voted On In 1940

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21.—(AP)—The general assembly voted today to ask the people to approve in November, 1940, a legislative pay hike under which the lawmakers would receive a flat $125 a month whether in session or not.

The house passed 92 to 6 the constitutional amendment, sponsored by Senator M. E. Casey (D) Kansas City, thus assuring it a place on the ballot at the next general election. The proposition does not require the governor's signature.

A representative would get $3,000 for each two-year term under the Casey amendment as against $680 received for the current session.

The lawmakers now are paid $5 a day for the first 120 days of a revision session such as the present one and $1 a day thereafter.

For ordinary meetings they receive $5 for the first 70 days and $1 thereafter.

Casey's proposal would eliminate the $30 postage allowance for each member during a session and also strike out constitutional section which provides that if either branch is out of session more than three days, the assembly is automatically adjourned sine die.

The lower branch adopted the amendment without debate. These six members voted against it: Gill, (D) Kansas City; H. S. Rainwater (R) Polk county; T. J. Walker (D) Columbia; H. T. Floyd (R) Andrew county; Urlin Salmon (R) Daviess county and M. J. Woodward (D) Clinton county.

Legislative payhikers uniformly have met defeat at the polls in the past.

The house adopted 98 to 2 minor senate corrections in a bill of Rep. E. W. Couey (D) Sedalia, requiring employers to furnish monthly statements of deductions in pay. The measure now goes to the governor.

Reject Stark Plan Plan For Blind

JEFFERSON CITY, June 21.—(AP)—The senate emphatically rejected Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's proposal for solving Missouri's blind aid financing problem today by defeating 19 to 13 a bill which would have obtained federal aid.

It was the second time the body had refused to abandon the state's flat $25 a-month pension for blind persons in favor of payments based solely on the need.

The proposal beaten today was similar to a measure defeated earlier in the session. Governor Stark however, urged that the legislature revive its attempt to obtain federal aid, pointing out that the present 3-cent blind levy will fall nearly $500,000 short of providing pensions for the 4,000 recipients during 1939-40.

Sen. Allen McReynolds (D) of Carthage, said by obtaining federal assistance Missouri would have about $3,500,000 a biennium for pensions alone compared with about $2,000,000 now available and in addition could use another $500,000 for other blind activities.

No Chance To Escape Tax

Persons who are trying to "beat" the city automobile license are doomed to face fines ranging from $1 to $5 with an additional $1 a month penalty, it was announced at police headquarters today.

It has been called to the attention of the police that several persons residing inside of the city limits but who give their address as R. F. D. are endeavoring to "beat" the tax. Already several persons have been reported by "so-called" friends and Traffic Officer Herman Fischer is preparing the necessary "ticket in violations" to appear at police headquarters.

Several automobile owners, it was declared by Fischer, have told friends how to beat paying the city automobile tax which in turn has resulted in several trying to do it.

Those car owners who obtain their sticker and get it on the car windshield before the police find the car in operation or parked downtown, will be able to dodge the $1 fine.

In spite of the fifteen-day grace given by the city officials to obtain their license tags, not less than twenty persons who told the officers they were waiting for their WPA checks so they could get the tags, asked to be given until next Monday to get their license. They have been refused and if caught on the streets with their cars will be fined the same as any other citizen.

No privileges are being extended to anyone, Mayor Julian Bagby said. The license was due on June 1 and the fifteen-day grace was given more as a custom, and there is no reason why anyone operating a car could not have looked forward to the "deadline" date and obtained their sticker.

Rains Heavy Over The State

ST. LOUIS, June 21.—(AP)—Rain-fall has been excessive over northern Missouri the past two days, with amounts ranging from three to more than seven inches, and most all tributary streams are bankfull.

A 5.56 inch cloudburst at Chilli-cothe yesterday afternoon started the Grand river rising rapidly. This section was drenched by a two inch downpour the day before.

A 3.17 inch rain was reported at Brunswick in Chariton county yesterday, and Hannibal measured more than five inches of precipitation in 48-hours.

Yesterday's rain, accompanied by wind in some localities, fell with such force that it damaged wheat and corn crops.

At St. Joseph 1.27 inches of rain fell in thirteen minutes, measuring nearly one-tenth of an inch a minute. Total rainfall there was 1.98 inches. Considerable wind and hail damage was reported in this vicinity. Cameron was soaked by a heavy downpour.

Other points recording more than one inch of moisture Tuesday included St. Louis 1.07; Union 1.83; Hermann 1.90; Lakeside 1.90; Waverly 1.01; Columbia 1.03.

The Missouri river from Lexington to the mouth was rising at a fairly rapid rate, but the weather bureau said flood stages are not anticipated.

Continued scattered thunder-showers, with lower temperatures, are forecast for tonight and Thursday.

The Family Doctor

The amount of fat eaten by various people differs according to their tastes and desires. It is commonly believed that the Eskimos eat large quantities of oils and fats. Those who know say, however, that they eat a great deal of protein, not very much fat, and hardly any carbohydrate.

It is commonly said that people who do a great deal of work in the open air can consume great quantities of fat without trouble. It should be pointed out, however, that hard workers who spend much time in the open air eat a great deal of food altogether. For instance, in Maine lumbermen whose diets were investigated took more than 8000 calories of food a day, obtaining 49 per cent from carbohydrate and only 44 per cent from fat.

In a general study of diets it has been found that men consume from 29 to 50 per cent of the total calorie intake in the form of fat and that women take from 32 to 54 per cent—the average being 39 for men and 42 for women.

Fat is expensive. Poor people tend to eat less fat than others who have plenty of money to spend on food. Everyone is familiar with the fact that there is said to be a shortage of fats in central Europe. Indeed, when ever a nation as a whole begins to economize, reduction in fats in the diet is one of the earliest steps. Poor people are likely to eat more carbohydrates and sugars than fat proportionately because the sugars are generally cheap as compared with the proteins and the fats.

In selecting fats in the diet certain ones are preferable to others because of their digestibility and the other factors which they provide. Fats are digested in the small bowel by the material which comes from the pancreas into the bowels. The bile aids by emulsifying the fats.

Butter, which has a low melting point, is easily digested. Lard also has a low melting point, but beef fat and mutton fat have high melting points and are not, therefore, easily digested.

Fats are digested most slowly of all foods. The long time required for their digestion is responsible for the fact that hunger does not follow soon after a meal containing a good deal of fat. It is not wise, therefore, to have too much fat in a meal. The presence of a lot of fat will delay the digestion of the proteins through decreasing the gastric juice which may come in contact with the proteins.

For this reason fat meats, such as those from pork and from the goose, are not considered easily digestible. The eating of a certain amount of carbohydrate food with the fats helps their digestion. This is probably the reason for the placing of apple sauce with roast pork as a regular relationship in the diet.
